"When I began to dream again"

When I began to dream again
Everything became a glowing orb of possibility
Hanging like a ripened fruit, waiting to be picked
To be reached for and deliciously enjoyed.
Horizons became wide, open and illuminated,
Luring my eager gaze constantly.
My freedom to cover many meaningful miles
Where before they had been so empty.
I savoured each milestone.
Slowly I made my dreams a reality,
Letting each precious drop of water
Be absorbed into the vast Arizona desert of my previously parched existence.
I craved each life-enhancing trickle
As gradually my vista became a lush meadow
Full of colourful wonder
Where I could stroll for hours
In the knowledge that my grass had never been greener...

Gordon was diagnosed with bipolar disorder in 2007, has been active in mental health organisations since and is currently the Chair of Bipolar Scotland. #### James McDermott

Firstly I am a physically disabled person and also a Mental Health Service User who has access to ongoing support from Mental Health Services. I have spent the last 32 years of my life working in a Local Authority and Private Sector, 27 Years in local authority as a Senior Advisor to the Senior Management Team and Directorate and staff and the last 5 years employed at Glasgow Centre for Inclusive Living pioneering Independent Living using the Social Model via the disability movement.

My years of Employment has afforded me the opportunity to build up a special interest and knowledge on Self Directed Support, Direct Payments and Individualised Budgets and last but not least a wealth of knowledge on the Independent Living Fund. I am an experienced Trainer on all of these subjects, currently I am formalising joint training with my Associates on Welcome Recovery Action Planning and Self Directed Support. No other Mental Health service user or Mental Health organisation apart from the above is offering or providing this training and development opportunity.

I am a Mental Health Foundation Policy Panel Member.

Member of Scottish Recovery Network Ambassador for Mental Health {Via ILiS and GDA.} Mental Health Champion on Self Directed Support with Penumbra. Member of Glasgow Disability Alliance. Member of the Glasgow City Council, Physical Disability Consultation Group.

I got involved with various Mental Health organisations to lift the profile of Mental Health and to establish routes to increase the take up of Personalisation through Self Directed Support.

I want one day to end the stigma, discrimination and inequality that is very prevalent towards people with Mental Health. I will do so by continuing to create an affirmative model of Mental Health that will insist that Mental Health service users are treated as equal citizens in our communities and that we will all have the same respect, rights and opportunities as any other citizen, with human rights legislation we have the right to live as free and independent lifestyle as any other citizen.

John Sawkins

I previously worked with Highland Users Group (HUG) and Advocacy Highland. I have had my recovery story published with Scottish recovery Network (SRN) and contributed to See Me anti-stigma campaigns as a media volunteer. I recently contributed to the judging of the See Me Writing Competition. Now that I am living in Aberdeen, I participate in the RGU social science service user meetings. As a diagnosed bipolar, I have participated in studies conducted by the University of Melbourne, as well as a joint study by Cardiff and Birmingham Universities. I attend, on behalf of VOX, as a service user representative, meetings organised by the Royal College of Psychiatrists both in Edinburgh and London, and this allows me, along with my colleagues, to raise important issues brought up by our members. I have spoken at meetings in Edinburgh, Aberdeen and St Andrews on mental health issues.

Donna Banks

Donna has a lived experience of mental illness and as the manager of a service user led organisation she works closely with her board of directors. She has knowledge of business plan development, report writing, legal responsibilities in relation to running an organisation and policy and development skills.

Donna believes in the aims and objectives of VOX and wishes to support the organisation by sharing her knowledge, experience, skills and abilities within the mental health field and also in governance. She believes that VOX should develop strong foundations within the service user communities and individuals with a lived experience of mental health issues to ensure that it is the collective voice of the Scottish people.

AUTISM AND MENTAL HEALTH

The Autism Rights Group Highland and the Highland Users Group have produced a joint report on Autism and Mental Health, to read the full report please click on here Autism and Mental Health \(joint report with ARGH\) - March 2011

WHAT IS ARGH (AUTISM RIGHTS GROUP HIGHLAND)?

ARGH is run by and for autistic adults in Highland; we joined together to form a group with the aim of improving the lives of autistic people. The founders of ARGH were inspired to start a group to fill a gap: groups existed locally for people with mental health issues and people with a learning disability but there was nothing exclusively for autistic people. We were the first group of our kind in the UK and are still the only one in Scotland; independent from any other body we are self-governing and self-funding; a group controlled entirely by autistic people to promote the rights of autistic people.

We want to show people that autistic adults are autonomous; we want to speak for ourselves and we want to change the presumption that we need others to speak for us.

We feel that coming together as a collective makes many individual voices stronger; by working together one person's weaknesses are overcome by another's strengths, we believe that everyone has something unique to offer and something to gain by working in this way. These are principles that we want to see reflected in wider society.

Through offering training we inform service providers about what autistic people really experience, this is a way to improve services for all autistic people.

We hold meetings for members, produce a newsletter, campaign for improved services and challenge discrimination as a group and as individuals in our daily lives. "Nothing About Us Without Us" is really important to us because all too often we feel that people do things "for" and "to" us rather than allowing us to take the lead and live our lives in the way we choose.

We have a member's only online message board that links autistic people across Highland. This means that no matter where in Highland someone lives they can access a safe autistic space to talk to other autistic people. Many autistic people benefit from meeting others whether online or in real life. It can be of great support to meet others who have similar experiences or who may be more able to understand you because of the shared experience of being autistic. For more information on membership and meeting details please email: kb@arghighland.co.uk www.arghighland.co.uk

WHAT IS HUG?

HUG (Action for Mental Health) is a network of people who have experience of mental health problems.

At present HUG has approximately 400 members and 14 branches across the Highlands. HUG has been in existence now for 15 years. Between them, members of HUG have experience of nearly all the mental health services in the Highlands. HUG wants people with mental health problems to live without discrimination and to be equal partners in their communities. The Highland Users Group has recently produced a number reports on homelessness, poverty and current mental health issues in the highland area, these reports can be accessed here:

Principles into Practice Awards

NATIONAL AWARD FOR SANCTUARY PROGRAMME

A partnership programme involving VOX has won a top Scottish award for their work with asylum seekers and refugees.

The Sanctuary programme, developed by the Positive Mental Attitudes (PMA) initiative based in East Glasgow, with support from a number of external partners including VOX, picked up the “Respect for diversity” prize from the Mental Welfare Commission’s Principles into Practice Network.

Sanctuary has the twin aims of addressing stigma and discrimination experienced by asylum seekers and refugees, and also to deliver training programmes to help improve staff awareness of this community’s mental health needs.

This includes a DVD produced by specialist film-maker Diversity Films which tells the stories of six asylum seekers and refugees living in Glasgow. The film won a highly commended award at the Scottish Mental Health Arts and Film Festival.

Neil Quinn, Sanctuary Lead, said: “With Glasgow hosting increasing numbers of asylum seekers and refugees over the last few years, developing a programme of work to understand and improve the mental health of asylum seekers and refugees became a priority for us.

“We built effective partnerships with a range of national organisations to help secure the expertise to help us deliver this piece of work.

“The Sanctuary programme is innovative on a number of different levels, with good reach within local communities through the peer led community workshops and a high quality film capturing the narratives of asylum seekers and refugees which has informed a tailored training programme for staff within the NHS and other services.

“The award reflects the strength of the partnerships as well as the innovative nature of the work and provides a spotlight on this very important issue.

Peer led research involved more than 100 contributors who identified how pre-migration trauma as well as poverty, racism and the stress of the asylum process impacts negatively on mental health.

Stigma and discrimination within these communities often leads to a reluctance to seek help.

Following the research 10 peer educators were drawn from asylum seeker and refugee community organisations and 25 workshops were held attended by several hundred people.

The DVD “Inside stories”, funded by the NHS Mental Health Partnership’s training group was integrated into a training programme, based on the specialist knowledge and expertise within the Sanctuary group, and has already been delivered to more than 100 NHS staff and 12 more courses are planned.

The partners are NHS Health Scotland, Scottish Refugee Council, Medical Foundation for Victims of Torture, Mental Health Foundation and Voices of Experience (VOX).

Focus ARBD, a new collective advocacy group for Scotland.

Focus ARBD is a new national collective advocacy group of and for people who have alcohol related brain damage.

Focus ARBD’s aims are to

- raise awareness and understanding of ARBD nationally and locally
- promote information which provides clear messages about how ARBD can be avoided

- help to improve services for people with ARBD
- tackle stigma
- influence public policy

ARBD is the name given to a range of physical and cognitive disabilities which result from heavy long term use of alcohol. These can include difficulties with balance and co-ordination, loss of short term memory and loss of the ability to acquire new information. ARBD often goes undiagnosed. There are specialist services in some parts of Scotland and not in others. The quality, range and access to services varies a lot. People who have ARBD face many challenges in their daily lives and are often marginalized and isolated. Some people in their 40's and 50's end up living in care homes – sometimes for the rest of their lives. And there is stigma and discrimination.

A small group of men and women, determined to change things, has formed the steering group for Focus ARBD. The group meets every 3 weeks in Glasgow. It's still very early days but plans are in place to produce the first newsletter this summer. The newsletter will be in DVD format and will introduce the steering group and Focus ARBD's plans.

A big priority for the steering group is to build up a network of members (people who have ARBD) across Scotland. Reaching people is very difficult. It generally depends on advocacy workers, professionals and members of organisations such as VOX telling people with ARBD they know or work with about Focus ARBD and, if needed, supporting people to get in touch with us. Steering group members are also very keen to go out and meet with people in different areas.

Joyce Mouriki of VOX met with the group earlier this year and gave us a lot of helpful information about VOX and the experience of growing a new national membership organisation.

Focus ARBD is funded for this year by the Mental Health Division of the Scottish Government and the Scottish Community Foundation.

Sally Dick and Chris Vickerman of Infusion Co-op support the group and, as Focus ARBD is not a constituted organisation yet, Infusion Co-op holds the funding. One of the most urgent jobs is to secure funding for next year and beyond.

Please contact Sally or Chris if you would like to join Focus ARBD or would like more information or would like us to meet with people with ARBD in your area or for any other reason!

Spending Cuts Surveys

The last two years has seen significant cuts to public sector spending affecting the social care funding across Scotland. These changes may have a significant impact on the lives of people living with a mental health condition, particularly in relation to quality of life, mental health and well-being and recovery.

Mental health organisations (including: VOX, HUG, Bipolar Scotland, ACUMEN, Stirling Users Network, Scotia Clubhouse, Mental Health Network (Greater Glasgow), and Peer Support Fife) have launched a survey to gather evidence from across Scotland on the extent of spending cuts and how they impact on the services people receive, and whether the spending cuts have resulted in negative social outcomes affecting people's mental health and recovery. In order to get as big a response as possible I would be grateful if you could look to promoting the questionnaire through your contacts, publications, website or social network pages.

Employment Tribunal Judges

VOX Administration Officer John Steel, along with Gordon Johnston, VOX Director and David Atiyah, former VOX Director, attended the Employment Judges’ Equality Awareness Training day at the Balbinnie Hotel in Markinch Fife, on Thursday 21st April 2011 and gave a presentation on the VOX organisation. As a result of this presentation there is a possibility of VOX being invited to consult with the Tribunals Judiciary to produce information on the VOX website about the Employment Tribunal system and how it operates. ### An end to age discrimination

The Banning Age Discrimination consultation was launched on 3 March. It sets out how this provision in the Equality Act 2010 will be implemented by health and social care organisations. Having no exceptions to the ban, means that from April 2012, any use of age in decision-making will need to be objectively justified if challenged.

This requirement will also apply to organisations that provide goods or services to, or on behalf of, NHS and social care organisations. It is the final part of the Act to be implemented.

The consultation seeks views on how the ban on age discrimination will be implemented across Government and, in relation to health and social care, the potential impact of having no exceptions to the ban. The aim of having no exceptions is to allow harmful uses of age to be challenged in the courts by anyone who feels they have been discriminated against, while allowing beneficial uses of age – for example, age-appropriate services – to continue. The consultation is available at <http://www.equalities.gov.uk/Default.aspx> and the Department of Health is seeking views from across the community, including people of all ages and people working in relevant industries.
